DINER FACT

With the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1956, diners took to the highways to serve the travelling public. Business boomed until the 70's when fast food chains started attracting more customers. Some establishments changed with the times, others preserve the institution and continue to welcome clientele into chrome-gilded, vinyl-upholstered environments.

DINER FACT

Women didn't patronize or work in diners until after the 1920's. They had a saloon-type atmosphere and women generally didn't feel comfortable in them. It wasn't until WWII that women were encouraged to work and eat in diners.
